

2009 Aridisol Red Columbia Valley

Daven Lore
winery

CASES PRODUCED: 64

WINEMAKER NOTES

The 2008 Aridisol was a classic Bordeaux-style blend. Our 2009 Aridisol is all Rhone: Syrah, Mourvèdre and Durif (also known as Petite Sirah). Bold, deep purple-black in color, the heady blackberry and plum jam notes are layered in chocolate derived from time in northern Minnesota American oak barrels. The spice is light eucalyptus, cinnamon and black licorice with a pinch of tobacco. Aridisol, meaning “desert soils,” is a testament to why I love Washington State wines.

ARIDISOL RED

COLUMBIA VALLEY

Wine Lore: While some wineries grow all of their own grapes, at Daven Lore we source ours from local growers who specialize in grape production. That allows wine maker Gord Taylor to focus on getting the most out of the grapes. The grapes in the Aridisol Red are grown on desert soils that soil scientists, like his wife Joan Davenport, classify as Aridisols (arid soils). Like all of the grapes that we source, these are grown within a 30 mile radius of the winery. With this wine we aim to bring you a taste of the area in every glass.
